

Baby Talk in Tuberosus Sclerosis Complex

Speaking is one of the most critical milestones in a baby's life. Our team is investigating how Tuberosus Sclerosis Complex (TSC) impacts a baby's speech. The study is focused on examining the vocalizations and early language of infants with TSC.

Contact us if you're interested in participating in our study.
Your child must be a newborn to 36 months old.

Principal Investigator: Tanjala Gipson, MD

Phone: 901-287-7337

Fax: 901-266-6670

